Dear Members and Friends:

I hope this newsletter finds you well, with a humble and reflective start to the Lenten Season. Whether you've chosen to "give up" a material pleasure or "give more" in your faith and charity to others, the season can certainly provide an opportunity for re-orientation and closer connections to God.

With this in mind, the St. Thomas More Society is pleased to offer events and opportunities for spiritual growth throughout Lent. First, I encourage you to take advantage of the Lenten Series offered by our own former president, Don Carroll. This year's series focuses on the Passion narratives in the Gospels. We examined the more center Gospel of Mark this week and will focus on the other Gospels in the remaining three weeks. Please consider joining us for one - if not all - of these discussions. It is surely a worthwhile way to spend lunch on Tuesday afternoons.

Likewise, we invite you to join us for our March luncheon on Thursday, March 28th. This month's speaker is Father Flavio Sufco, the chaplain of detention ministry for the Archdiocese. Father Sufco was appointed last year to provide Mass and pastoral care to incarcerated men and women throughout the Bay Area.

Lenten Series

All members and other interested individuals are invited to the remaining three sessions of our Lenten Series. The series looks to the original intent of the four Evangelists and offering images
